STATE OF MAINE.

LAND OFFICE,
Bangor, May 1, 1858.

IN the discharge of my duty as "Agent to superintend and manage the sale and settlement of the Public Lands" of the State, the following notice is hereby given of the Terms and Conditions of Sale:

In the Revised Statutes of Maine, Chapter 5 may be found all the provisions of law in relation to

The Sale of Lands for Settlement.

Sec. 23. Out of townships located and designated for settlement, the Land Agent shall, from time to time, select, not exceeding one in a year, to be offered for sale in lots for settlement; and publish a list of them and of the townships offered for sale and settlement in former years, in which lands still remain for sale, in some paper in each county in the State in which any paper is published, once a week for three months, within six months after the selection is so made, with the substance of so much of this chapter as relates to the terms and conditions of the sale and settlement of such lands.

Sec. 24. In townships so selected, in which suitable roads have not been located, the Land Agent shall cause such roads to be located as the public interest and the accommodation of the future settlement require.

Sec. 25. The price of the settling lots shall be fifty cents per acre, for which the purchaser shall give three notes, payable in one, two and three years, in labor on the roads in said township, under the direction of the Land Agent. The Land Agent shall thereupon give him a certificate, stating that he has become a purchaser of the lot or lots therein described, and that he will be entitled to a deed thereof, when he complies with the requirements of law. The certificate of the person appointed by the Land Agent to superintend the laying out of the labor on the roads, shall be evidence of the payment of the notes. Only one lot, not exceeding two hundred acres, shall be granted to the same person.

Sec. 26. Beside the payment of the notes, every such purchaser shall be required within two years from the date of his certificate to establish his residence on his lot, and with a four years from such date to clear, on each lot, not less than fifteen acres, ten at least of which shall be well laid down to grass, and to build a comfortable dwelling house on it.

Sec. 27. If the purchaser fails to perform any of the duties required of him, or to pay his notes, he forfeits all right to the land, and the Land Agent may dispose of it to another person.

Sec. 28. The Land Agent shall appoint some suitable person or persons in the vicinity to superintend the location of settlers, the payment of their road labor, and the performance of their several duties.

Sec. 29. Whoever purchases a lot of wild land of the State, not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres and complies with the conditions of purchase, may hold it with the improvements thereon free from attachment and levy on execution while he remains in actual possession thereof. The value so exempted shall not exceed one thousand dollars, to be set off to the owner in such portions of the lot as he directs, by the appraisers appointed to levy an execution, the same as real estate is set off and appraised on execution.

Sec. 31. On the decease of such purchaser, such lot and the improvements shall descend to his children, subject to his widow's right of dower, and shall not be liable to be sold for the payment of his debts, except in case his other property is not sufficient for the payment thereof, and in that case, his children shall have the occupancy and improvement thereof, subject to the widow's dower, until the youngest surviving child attains the age of eighteen years. The remainder of the estate, after the life estate of the widow and after the youngest surviving child attains said age, may be sold as other estates of deceased persons for the payment of such debts as the other estate of the deceased is not sufficient to pay. If he dies without issue, such lot shall descend and be disposed of as any other property.

Sec. 32. No such purchaser, having a wife, shall convey his said lot by deed, unless his wife joins therein, and acknowledges it to be her free act and deed, before a proper magistrate.

Sec. 33. The Land Agent may sell at public or private sale for such prices as he considers fair and for the interest of the State all tracts of land owned by the State on islands or in incorporated towns.

Under the provisions of this law, there have been already located and designated for settlement, and by former Land Agents selected and published for sale, the following townships, viz:

Township	Acres unsold	Township	Acres unsold
A R 1,	6,747	9, R 4,	21,312
B R 1,	10,012	12, R 4,	22,890
C, R 1,	22,610	3, R 5,	21,117

13, R 3,	23,010	11, R 6,	2,030
5 R 4,	22,17[illegible]	13, R 6,	1,413

In addition to the foregoing, there were located and designated for settlement, by a Resolve of the last Legislature, the following townships, viz:—Letter G, R. 1, L and M, R. 2; East half of 4, R 6; and 5, R. 3; all west from the east line of the State.

These townships will be lotted and ready for the market, as fast as the future wants of settlers shall require. The field notes and plans of all the townships which have been lotted for settlement, are in the Land Office, open for inspection, where all information within the means of the Agent, to secure to individual and others the benefits and privileges intended by the Legislature for actual settlers, will be cheerfully given.

Otis' Lightning Rods.

☞ The only Patent which affords absolute Protection against Lightning, as demonstrated by science and experience.

This Rod has been extensively used thro' the Southern & Western States, West Indies and the Canadas, since 1851, and though it has been struck in hundreds of instances, it has never failed to protect.

The great amount of damage done recently by lightning has called attention, as it should, to the protection of buildings by the use of Lightning Conductors. It is all important that the rod used should be one that will give protection, and in rodding buildings it should be done by one having experience in the business.

Mr. Reed, former partner of H. F. M. Kimball, now proprietor of the patent for Penobscot Co., has returned to this city to commence business for the coming season. Having had large experience, he assures the public that all his work of this kind will be done in a thorough, neat, and scientific manner.

☞ Samples of this Rod, and certificates of its merits from many of the most eminently scientific men in the country, may be seen at D. M. HOWARD'S Store, on Exchange street, No. 15, and at Dodge's Hotel, Harlow st., and at the office of the Penobscot Mutual Fire Insurance Co., Granite Block, East Market Square, Bangor.

The Resources, the Condition and the Wants of Maine.

MR. WASHBURN'S ORATION.

[We publish to-day the Address delivered by Hon. Israel Washburn, Jr., at the Oldtown celebration on the 5th of July. Every son and daughter of Maine should read and ponder it well. It abounds in facts and suggestions, all showing that the State in which we live is a good State, and that few of those who leave its borders do in reality better their condition thereby.]

After some pleasant local references, Mr. Washburn said:

I have thought, my friends, that an half hour might be spent, not inappropriately or unprofitably, on this occasion, in discussing the resources, condition and wants of the State in which we live, and the duties which, as good citizens, we owe her. In no way, it seems to me, may we serve the whole country better than by considering how we shall best strengthen and adorn that part of the Union which is more immediately ours to cultivate and care for. The whole is composed of parts, and if these are made the most of, developed to the fullest, the greatness, prosperity and glory of the whole will be assured.

As in some grand Oratorio, in which notes of heavenly sweetness are married to the thunder tones of power by a perfect and admirable harmony, music, such as angels might lean from Heaven to hear, is produced through the perfection which each performer, by attending faithfully and assiduously to his own part, has acquired—so, by persevering and diligent attention to their own particular needs and interests, will Maine, and each of the sister States, be able to offer their best contribution to that anthem of good works which is the true music of the Union, and to which all good patriots keep step in their hearts and in their lives.

Dr. Mackay, the popular poet, told me last winter, that he thought Maine was less known in England than almost any other State in the confederacy—though he believed she was to be better known hereafter. That a State lying in the gateway to the old world, the nearest of all the States to the British Islands, and bounded by two of the Provinces of her Britannic Majesty, and the first land in the United States on which a Briton ever set foot, and where the earliest Anglo-Saxon settlement in America, though not a permanent one, was made, should be less known in England than States of yesterday, was a piece of information not particularly gratifying to my State pride; and I have sought for satisfactory reasons for this want of interest in, and information concerning, the State which wears, and not unworthily, the royal word "Dirigo" on her crest.

It cannot be because she is inaccessible, for she is in the very path of the intercourse between the old world and the new; and upon her direct sea frontage of two hundred and thirty miles, (not to speak of her 1300 miles of coast, including indentations) are numberless harbors some of them unrivalled, and one of them so transcendently superior to a tenth [illegible] in the country as to have compelled the selection of the Queen City, [illegible] like a bride upon its shores, as the American port of that wonder of naval architecture, the leviathan, "hugest of ships that swim the ocean stream." Neither can this ignorance arise from the fact that her sons have been wanting in enterprise and an adventurous spirit—for no people are more justly distinguished than the natives of Maine for these qualities. There is no land beneath the sun which they have not visited, and if we shall ever be favored with a biography of the "man in the moon," I have no earthly doubt that it will be found he was one of the travellers who have emigrated from this State! There is no sea that is not traversed by our keels, the fleetest and staunchest that walk the waters like things of life. When the California gold mines invited the attention of the world, what State made more liberal contributions to the volume of emigration that set then through the Golden Gate—of men, too, proverbial for their enterprise, industry and intelligence.

What names are oftenest recorded at Lloyds in London? Those of Maine—ship-masters and ship owners.

What State has sent farmers to break up the prairies of the West in larger relative numbers than our State? If you visit the pineries of Wisconsin and Minnesota you will find the axes, the pike-poles and the spades in hands which had learnt their cunning on the banks of the Penobscot. Go to Canada and the lower Provinces, and there is not a forest but has echoed the blows of our stalwart lumbermen, and where voices once familiar at Oldtown will not greet you with a jocund welcome.

Visit the business avenues of trade in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, New Orleans, San Francisco, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Chicago, and you will be struck with the large proportion of active and successful business men who hail from the Pine Tree State. Or if you have a leisure hour to spend among the spindles at Lowell and Lawrence, and fail to admire the skill and dextrous facility of the, [illegible] and without girls that you see, there—the delicate-fingered fair-haired daughters of our own State—write yourself down as no true son of Maine, for every body else will.

It is not, then, because our sons and daughters have not been abroad, that the State itself is less known than other States; nor is it because our people, outside of the limits of business enterprise and adventure, have been inferior to those of other States. In theology, she has given the world a Payson; in National Science a CLEAVELAND, a great name, honored throughout the world of science. In rare and accomplished Statesmanship she presents the name of RUFUS KING. In the Fine Arts a young man, born in the County of Cumberland, who, ten years ago, was attending the village school at Orono, is this day, in his Italian studio furnishing proofs of genius that will place the name of BENJAMIN PAUL AKERS among the first sculptors of the age. What name is better known in literature, and particularly in the department of belles-lettres, in this country and in Europe, than that of N. P. WILLIS, many of whose writings, for vigor of thought and gracefulness of expression, have seldom been approached and never surpassed. And he who by common consent is the greatest living Poet in America, if not in the world,—whose words are familiar as household words wherever the English tongue is spoken,—in England more popular even than those of Tennyson—and which have been translated into all the languages of Europe—HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW, is, we are proud to claim, a native of the State of Maine. The only native of what is now the United States who received the honor and distinction of Knighthood from the British Crown, was Sir WM. PEPPERELL, born in 1696 in Kittery in Maine.

Is there any reason, in the physical aspects of our State—in her climate, soil and resources—why she should not be well and favorably known abroad? Our climate, let me say in all sincerity and candor, I believe to be equal, on the whole, to any in the world. In it have been reared the [illegible], vigorous, able men of whom I have spoken—the hardy, rugged and stalwart in frame and brain—brave men and fair women, and surpassing pretty, whose works and words have verified the truth that—

"Souls are ripened in our Northern skies."

True, our winters are long and cold—but how much more comfortable and health-conducing is the dry and steady cold weather that here prevails from December to March, than the changing—now cold, now dry, now wet—the juicy, sloshy, melting, freezing winter weather of the Middle States—or than the grey, dismal prairie skies of Illinois alternating with the howling storms that sweep over its boundless plains. Of our March and April, I admit it is rather difficult to get enthusiastic on them, but our summers are in the main temperate and agreeable, and our autumns are positively delicious—with their painted skies, clear, bracing airs and variegated forests, how can we help loving this goodly land? No malaria, no fever and ague, no yellow fever. Would to God we were equally exempt from the Western fever!

I remember that the distinguished Mr. Rantoul in one of the last speeches he ever made in Congress, turning to some member from New England, said, "You are to be the carriers for the country, but do not flatter yourselves that the North East is to do its manufacturing; the manufacturing for this country, or that part of it which is to be done here, will in a large measure be transferred to the Mississippi valley." But I thought then as I now think, that Mr. Rantoul erred vitally in ignoring the great, fixed and eternal fact that the climate of New England is so much more favorable than that of the valley of the Mississippi for labor, as to afford us a protection in effect equal to twenty-five per cent. I believe that an artisan can, for the year, perform one fourth more labor here than he can there, and I know that ship-builders find it to their advantage to ship their live oak from the south to Maine and build their vessels here, for the simple reason that men can do so much more in our climate than in that even of the central Atlantic States.

The soil of this State is not equally fertile with that of most of the western states—but a large portion of it is arable, and nearly all arable or grazing—and its cultivation yields better returns than the richest acres of the west—for we are in the eye of commerce, and markets are all around us. The beef, the pork, the butter, bread, and cereals of the west must be transported thousands of miles to those great markets which are at our door, and which make daily demands also upon potato fields, orchards and gardens—and to which we may also send our perishable vegetables, our fresh fish, milk, &c.

How much wheat does a western farmer average to the acre? Not so much as the Aroostook farmer. I admit that the expense of cultivation is less there than here, but the net result of profit will not equal that which our farmer can report. What acre of wheat in the West yields the same net return that an equal investment of capital and labor on a field of potatoes will yield in Penobscot?

No—the good farmer—he who is industrious and prudent, and is content, and knows how to manage his farm, can go nowhere in the United States and better his condition. Here, he is in the great world. But a step, and he can take passage in the car that takes the land of his ancestors. He wakes in the morning to see the daily paper which tells him all that is at that hour known by the inhabitants of London or New York. He puts his ear to the ground and hears the roar of the great sea, and feels that he is a sort of a fellow creature with that power which neighbors him with all the world. He can have a fresh mackerel, dainties of the finny tribe, within a few hours or minutes after it is hooked—his oysters need not be carried in salted vessels over interminable railroads, and of his lobsters, so fresh and radiant, he can sing with Burns,

"Oh, my love is like a red, red rose."

And the district school, the grammar school, and the high school are near him, taught by the schoolmaster we keep at home, and not by such as we send abroad—if a faithful representation of the latter is to be found in the following anecdote: It is related, that as Senator Iredell of North Carolina, was standing one day in a window of the Capitol, he observed a drove of jackasses coming up the street, and calling Senator Hillhouse of Connecticut, said, "See, there are some of your constituents—where are they going?" "To North Carolina, to turn schoolmasters," was the prompt reply of Mr. Hillhouse.

And the College and the University are here—not such as are often advertised in other parts of the country—but the well established and liberally appointed institutions (with their able and scholarly Professors) which are rooted in the soil of New England, and from which radiate an influence that is felt in the higher culture, and better tone, and inner refinement which exist around and about them.

Here is the church with the educated and intelligent pastor, who while he should aim to allure, may be safely trusted to lead the way. Here are the open highways, and all the facilities and aids of good neighborhood and social life. And here, too, let me remember not to forget,—the ladies would never forgive me—here, too, we live within a day's ride, or less, of three great emporiums of fashion, without which our world would not be half a world, at which the latest styles and modes can be readily obtained—and woman,—coaxing, sighing, laughing, lovely woman,—deck herself at her own sweet will,

"In all the pride, pomp and circumstance
Of glorious"—Crinoline.

Of the other resources and advantages of Maine I cannot speak as I would like, or as they deserve. Our facilities in ship building are unequalled, as is shown by the fact that nearly half of the sailing vessels which go into the merchant marine of the United States are built in this State.

No people can be better situated for prosecuting the fisheries, than those who inhabit the banks of the thousand and one bays, harbors, creeks and rivers of our maritime counties.

The rivers and streams of Maine are literally crowded with falls and rapids, furnishing water power unsurpassed in the Union, and so near tide-waters that they should be regarded as among the most valuable sites for manufacturing to be found in the country.

Iron of the very best quality, and inexhaustible in quantity is to be found in Piscataquis and Aroostook, and Slate equal to the best importations from Wales, is easily quarried to any amount, within 50 miles of Bangor.

The lumber of Maine is as far from being exhausted, that the amount of labor and capital employed in its transportation and manufacture should be larger for the next thirty years than it has been for the last.

Why then is it, with this admirable position upon the map, a climate so friendly, a soil in large districts most productive, other resources vast and varied as I have stated them—and more than all, an intelligent, industrious, enterprising population, our State does not occupy a more prominent and favorable place in the knowledge and estimation of the people of other States and countries? and why has she not increased more rapidly in wealth and population than she has done for many years past? There is, there can be, but one reason, and that lies patent and expanded before the eyes of us all. That reason is found in the cramped, narrow and illiberal policy, which, as a State she has pursued and cherished. It is adapted to no other purpose, as it certainly has been the effect of our policy, to drive men of capital and enterprise, as well as our young and capable laboring men out of the State. Its laws have discouraged rather than encouraged investments, and have gone far to fix the impression that here in Maine there is no field for successful enterprise—no adequate scope for the industry of our people—that to succeed, our merchants must go to Boston and New York, our farmers to the west, and our lumbermen to Canada. The products of our state we have sent to Massachusetts to be made into furniture, pails, cases, rakes, hoe handles, shovel handles, carriages, pill boxes, and pianos, and we have sent the mechanics there to manufacture them; and, paying a double transportation on the raw material and the manufactured article, have purchased the latter for our own uses with the former, thereby transferring the labor employed in these manufactures, and all the profits incident to it, from our own State to another, and stripping our forests and wearing out our soil to enrich a neighbour wise enough to seize the advantage we have so foolishly given him.

The irrepressible energies and activities of our people were not to be cramped by the weight so unwisely laid upon them; and thousands of our most valuable citizens, whose power of mind and muscle was worth more to the State than money could buy, embarrassed by the obstructions which our laws have thrown about them, and chafing against the galling of a false and ruinous policy, have gone to other States, invited by a larger freedom and a wiser apprehension of the motive forces of the age than they had found at home. And so year after year the highways and railroads have been thronged with emigrants from Maine, driven away by a feeling (the effect of bad laws and false theories) that their native State—a State richer in natural resources and greater in capabilities than almost any other—had culminated, and with a poor present, was looking only to a beggarly future. Day by day we have heard our State run down, her resources underrated, her position misrepresented and her people belied. And so it is that the people—those who have staid at home as well as those who have gone away—are chargeable with the results which I have to some extent depicted. They have acquiesced in a short-sighted, starveling policy and joined too readily in the dismal croakings with which our ears have been so long fatigued.

But, my fellow citizens, as evidence of the real strength of our State and of its great desirableness as a residence, we shall not overlook the fact that under all the disadvantages to which I have referred, substantial improvements have been made within the last decade—our valuation is larger than at any previous time and, judging from the vote for Governor in 1856, and the annual returns of the scholars in the State, our population approaches 700,000 souls.

So far as my observation and information extend (and I have taken not a little pains to observe and inquire,) of the whole number of persons who, within ten years, have removed from Maine, the proportion who have prospered and are as well off in the things of this world as those of like ability and promise who have remained in the State, will not exceed one in ten. In other words, nine out of every ten who have left the State have lost by so doing. Call to mind any ten men who have gone away, and compare their condition to-day, as you are informed it is, with that of any ten they left behind, who were their equals in property, ability and capacity, and say, whether your impression differ from mine. And if this is true of those who have been leaving for a series of years, what a sorry experience would all the biographies of those who have been whirled off by the excitement of the last year or two. It may be illustrated by the story of the farmer's cow,—said the farmer, "a locomotive struck the cow and threw her several yards into the field, where she lit upon her feet with her head towards the train." "But wasn't she scared?" enquired a listener—"Well," replied the farmer, "I don't know whether she was scared or not, but she looked a good deal discouraged!" And these folks who have been tossed from us by the locomotives of discontent and uneasiness, are turning their eyes to the place from which they went, and whether scared or not, there is no doubt that they look very much discouraged.

Many of them have returned (more will return) and all unite in reporting that the times are harder, money scarcer, and business duller in the west than here—that the people are not so well off, and in no wise so comfortable and well off. They have found out that there is a good deal of sober prose in the actual life of the west, as of the east—that there, as here, are rainy days and frowning skies, disappointments, delays, vexations, failures, sickness, losses and blue devils—and no lack of adventurers, scamps and cut-throats, and they have learnt what men every where are too apt to forget, that success is won only by those who earn it—that labor is the lever that moves the world—that without it there is nothing permanent and true; and that its rewards are as certain and considerable in Maine as elsewhere. So shall our confidence in this brave old State be restored and confirmed, our thoughts be turned to her elements of strength and beauty, and our speech describe her as she is—as a State than which no better can be found, whether for success in material things, or the comforts and delights of social life. The best country ever is one's home—but our homes are in the best country, and [illegible] is as near Heaven as any spot on the face of the earth.

I should add that Maine, in common with the northern Atlantic States, has suffered very much in consequence of the enormous grants of land made by Congress to railroads and to the new States, to aid in building railroads. These grants of millions upon millions of acres have constituted a [illegible] for the speculations to which they have given rise in those States, and have [illegible] great money centers [illegible] offered the best [illegible] tempting offers for money—offers which [illegible] ry business and no [illegible] ment granted as an [illegible] banal characters of [illegible] that ought to be [illegible] of so much capital [illegible] ranged the operations of business—created an undue excitement in the west, inflating prices, and attracting there thousands of the uneasy and adventurous, each of whom scraped up all the money he could raise by selling his property at reduced prices and borrowing. Thus the value of property was depreciated and business was embarrassed in three ways—1st by withdrawing vast sums of money from circulation among us—2d, by taking off large numbers of our people,—3d, by throwing unusual amounts of property, real and personal, upon the market when least wanted.

With the sounder views that are beginning to prevail in regard to our State, let us abandon the wretched theories that have lain upon her energies like the genius of the nightmare—let us cast to the moles and bats the chains and fetters which we have worn so long—and inaugurating a policy worthy of our noble State, and adapted to her condition, position and wants, take the place that belongs to us in the great march of enterprise soon to be recommenced in this country.

The city of Portland, whose unequaled harbor, adequate for the safe riding of the largest ships, and whose position on the continent with reference to European commerce and internal communication with the Canadas and the west, has pronounced her destiny, has awakened to her great advantages. Be it the grateful service of the people of Maine to second her laudable and just efforts to take rank among the leading emporiums of the country—for every blow struck for that city shall be felt through the whole State and quicken the activities of every portion thereof. Her great railroad extends already to Michigan and there forming connections with the whole northwest, is destined to be the base of the principal railway line to the Pacific, and the channel of a vast commerce with Asia.

What remains to be done, is to assure to capital, enterprise and labor that fostering care, that wise and prudent legislation for the benefit of our agricultural, manufacturing, ship-building and other leading interests which will not only keep our own people at home, but attract hither thousands of the industrious and enterprising of other states. Among the first objects to be secured is a railroad to our northeastern boundary. Of the vast importance of this work to the whole State, and especially to Aroostook and Penobscot counties, I need not speak in this presence—you feel and appreciate it, I doubt not, as intelligent and public spirited men should. Would you have Aroostook become the granary of New England—would you double the value of our forests by making available every clapboard butt, every shingle bolt, every juniper knee, every cord of bark, and every hoop pole now left to rot in their gloomy solitudes? Would you set the furnaces of Piscataquis in operation and increase their number—supply every city upon our shores with slates from her quarries? Would you give to Bangor the large and increasing trade now being diverted to the cities upon the St. Croix and the St. John? Build, I charge you, build the Aroostook Railroad!

And it is no such difficult and formidable undertaking as you may suppose. [Mr. Washburn here proceeded at considerable length to explain, and illustrate how it could be accomplished without involving the State or citizens in any ultimate liability which would be burdensome and inconvenient, and in such way as to bring foreign capital to be employed in our midst, quickening the pulses of business, while the work is in progress.]

If Portland, he said, is to be the seat of a large commerce with distant States and foreign nations, Bangor in the east should become the center of a vast domestic trade and of extensive manufactures. Her destiny is in her own hands. With such resources and possibilities as are here, her reputation for sagacity and enterprise will be seriously damaged, if she shall not put forth her best and most persevering efforts to make them available. And in no way can she effect more in this direction than by urging vigorously the construction of a railroad to the Aroostook with branches to the iron and slate districts.

I have spoken thus far of the claims and resources of our State and of our duties to her, in a physical and material point of view. But these considerations, weighty as they are, are of slight importance compared with those higher ones which have respect to the religious, moral and esthetic attitude and condition of her people, and wherein their truest life and essential prosperity consist. No matter how rich or strong or great a people may seem to be in outward possessions and opportunities, if they are disregardful of the precepts of Christianity, and of the duties which they teach—if a generous public spirit and an all-embracing philanthropy do not inform and pervade their lives—and if they fail to appreciate and enjoy the triumphs of literature, science and art, and have no abiding visions of the divine beauty which fills the universe, they are poor, weak, miserable indeed.

—"Great God! I'd rather be
A Pagan suckled in a creed outworn,
So might I, standing on this pleasant lea,
Have glimpses that would make me less forlorn;
Have sight of Proteus rising from the sea,
And hear old Triton blow his wreathed horn."

"And God said, let us make man in our own image." "This, remarks Douglas Jerrold, is beautiful, but it is a sadly melancholy work, when man says, 'Let us make God in our image.'"

But why need I, why should I, speak to you of these things when there are here, and around you speakers, though they utter no audible voices, more eloquent than any poor words of mine—

"The blue sky over head,
The green earth on which ye tread."

Here, by my side, are the reverend clergy, who by their presence speak to you of the power and beauty of that religion whose ministers they are. Here, grouped in a boquet of surpassing beauty are the associated sabbath schools of the village.* Forgetting in a Christian charity and toleration the divisions of party and sect, their parents have brought them here to form the crowning beauty of this festival. They speak to you, saying "how good and pleasant it is to dwell together in unity." They remind you too of your duties to the generation who are rising to assume after a few more days, the places which you occupy upon the earth. And cold and hardened must you be, if these human flowers do not, by the dewy fragrance of the dawn that is upon them, take you back to the time when you were young like them, and enable you to feel once more something of the freshness and the joy of childhood.

Shall I remind you of the duties of good neighborhood—of the necessity of cultivating a generous and self sacrificing spirit, which shall blossom and bear fruit in good deeds and noble daring, in the practical chivalry which honors and exalts the race, in the presence of these well appointed companies in which the elite of your young men have associated themselves together for the preservation of the lives and property of their fellow citizens. If you have ever visited Greenwood Cemetery, near the city of New York, as you have followed the winding pathways of that beautiful city of the dead, you have admired the tasteful lots, the obelisks, columns, cenotaphs, tombs and urns which love and affection and wealth have prepared and reared in commemoration of the merchant princes of the Great Metropolis, or of their wives and children who sleep there till the great awakening,—and your heart has been touched as you have read the inscription on the exquisite structure raised in memory of Charlotte Canda, the fair girl who in celebrating her 17th birth-day was thrown from her carriage, and almost instantaneously bereft of life. But, if I have not mistaken you, the deepest wells of your nature were stirred when your eyes rested on the noble monument standing on the chief eminence in those charming grounds, surmounted by the effigy of a FIREMAN AND A CHILD, which the firemen of New York had caused to be erected in honor of their young, brave and chivalrous brother, who at the expense of his own life, rescued a little child from the fourth story window of a burning house, placed it alive and safe in its mother's arms, and then of his own wounds and burns and bruises, died.

Shall I think to speak to you of the duty of cultivating a public spirit, the virtues of disinterested benevolence, and generous daring, in the presence of those who have consecrated themselves to deeds like this?

And need I utter a word to quicken within your souls a love of the graces, the refinements and the "sweet humanities" of life, when woman, whose "bright eyes reign influence," and whose true and loving heart [illegible] upon her by offering his vote for a kiss, [illegible] thousands of the moment she took him at her word and paid him on the spot! With such an ally Mr. Fox's fortunes began to mend, and at the close of the poll he had a majority over Sir Cecil Wray, of 235 votes." The women of this country may not be called upon to enter the turbulent arena of party, and mingle in the rough strifes of politics—but in every good work in which they may engage they will scarcely fail to exert an influence akin to that exercised by the brilliant Duchess—for when other expedients fail they have still the same potent argument with which she plied the butcher—and who can resist the magic of a woman's kiss? Not an Oldtown man I am sure!

But to conclude, for I have wearied you too long already, we are all workers and builders in these walls of time—all of us, old and young, men and women, clergy and laity, have our duties and appointments, in which we may exert an influence for good that shall be felt not alone in our immediate neighborhood but in the state and nation. Let us labor then while the day lasts, in patience and in trust, and no one is so humble that the world may not be the better for his having lived in it.

*The Sabbath school children, the firemen, and the young ladies who accompanied Miss Hellenbrand in the presentation of the banner to the "Dirigos," it will be remembered, were the principal features of the celebration.

THE ATLANTIC TELEGRAPH.—It appears by reports of vessels recently arrived, that the Telegraph fleet was on the middle ground of the Atlantic, where the laying of the cable was to commence, on or about the 24th of June.—Twenty days have elapsed since that time, and (unless there are tidings by telegraph this morning,) the Niagara has not yet arrived at Trinity Bay with the American end of the cable. It was estimated that 100 miles per day would be laid each way from the centre, which would have brought the cable to each shore about the 2d of July. Since the 24th of June, the City of Washington reports "strong westerly gales" on the whole of her passage.—[She left Liverpool June 23d.] These gales may have simply delayed the laying of the cable, or they may have caused the breaking of it and the defeat of the enterprise. The latter seems at this writing to be the general opinion.

When in 1841 James Buchanan rose in the Senate of the United States to move the rejection of Edward Everett as Minister of England, backing that motion by a long, subtle, and malignant speech, wherein he disclaimed all personal antipathy to Mr. Everett, all question of his ability and personal worth, but condemned and proscribed him simply as an Abolitionist, the first man to repel the imputation and hurl volcanic thunders at the mover was Mr. Rufus Choate, now father-in-law of Mr. Buchanan's sub-treasurer in Boston—Henry Clay's clarion voice of course was heard loud above the roar of faction. "You pretend" said Clay, "to fear that the Union will be dissolved if such men as Mr. Everett are called to high office, I tell you that if such men are rejected on such pretexts the Union is already dissolved." The conspirators were cowed by the defiant, indignant bearing of the Whig statesman, and the cold-hearted crafty treacherous mover of Mr. Everett's rejection devoured his chagrin in silence. Then Messrs. Everett and Choate did not doubt that they stood on the National side in the contest, and that Buchanan's motion, though veiled by a pretended love of and care for the Union, was intensely factious, sectional, and in its drift hostile to the integrity of the Union. Mr. Buchanan is the same to-day that he was in '41. Where, then, are Messrs. Choate and Everett?—N. Y. Tribune.

REMARKABLE CASE OF CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE. A case of considerable interest has occurred in Monroe County, Ark., which shows how strong a chain of circumstances can raise against an innocent person. Two men named Passmore and Lewis had rafts contiguous to each other in White River. An oar escaped from the raft of P. and lodged in the neighborhood of that of L., who secured it, and the former had the latter arrested and tried for stealing it, but he was acquitted. Very naturally L. gave vent to some hard words against P. The latter did not resent them, but vowed his intention to give L. "a hot bed before three days." A short time after Passmore was seen going in a canoe to Lewis's raft, armed with a double barrelled shot gun and a bowie knife. When about sufficient time had elapsed for P. to reach L.'s raft, two discharges of a gun were heard. Next day Lewis was to deliver his raft at a mill in Clarendon, close by, but as he did not do so, suspicions of something wrong were excited, and a number of persons went to where the raft had been, but it was gone, and no trace of anybody connected with it could be found.—Some weeks after this period a man going up the river, found in some drift wood a body whose size and dress answered the description of Lewis. The body had in it, buck shot holes, and stabs. Passmore was arrested, and held in a heavy bail. Shortly after this the steamer Ben Hale arrived at Clarendon, and the pilot, Bateman, and the captain, Dougherty, cleared Passmore of all suspicion by testifying that they had seen Lewis at Napoleon three weeks after the occurrence, and that the boat had paid him money that had been owing to him. Passmore was of course discharged.

AN INDIAN LOVER. Miss Bishop, the writer of "Floral Home," who went to Minnesota as a teacher, received an offer of marriage from an Indian. He came to her dwelling decked in all his finery—scarlet flannel, fringe, feathers, newly scoured brass ornaments, and bear's claws—and, through an interpreter, announced to her that she must be his wife. It was urged that he had one wife. He replied, "All the band have as many as they can keep, and I have but one." "As an extra inducement" he promised that she could have the best corner of the lodge, hunt by his side, and eat with him, while the dark squaw was to brush the papoose, cook the food, carry the game, hoe the corn, and provide wood and water. Miss Bishop, a little in fear of the "green-eyed monster," even if the other claimant did hold an inferior position, declined the distinction. The Indian then begged a dollar to buy a shirt and left with a haughty air. Next day he was drunk.

REV. SYDNEY SMITH. A DECIDED SELL.—Lady Cubels had a great passion for the garden and hot-house, and when she got hold of a celebrity like Rev. Dr. Smith, was sure to dilate upon her favorite subject. Her geraniums, her acacias, her marygolds, her rhododendrums, prunicums, mossy bombones and rosa pubescens, were discussed with all the flow of hot-house rhetoric—"My lady," said the Reverend wit, "did you ever have the Peacock Septems?" (This is the medical name for the itch.) "Oh, yes! a most b-e-a-u-t-i-ful one; I gave it to the Archbishop of Canterbury, and it came out splendidly in the spring!"

LOCAL AND MAINE NEWS.

Annual Meeting of the Penobscot and Kennebec Railroad Company.

This meeting was held at the Station house in this city yesterday (13th inst.)

Called to order at 11 o'clock by the President, Hollis Bowman, Esq., who read the Annual Report of the Directors, Treasurer and Auditors, which were accepted. [Extracts from these reports are given below.]

The Stockholders then proceeded to the election of Directors for the current year, and the following board was chosen, viz:

Hollis Bowman, Jabez True, T. W. Baldwin, Franklin Muzzy, William Connor, John Webber, and Ira Crocker.

1817 shares of stock were represented.

Some discussion then ensued upon the article "To see in what manner the Company will provide for the payment of the floating debt."

The President said the Directors recommend that a subscription be obtained for the remainder of the second mortgage bonds, which at 75 per cent. would relieve the Company from its most pressing liabilities, for which the Directors had become responsible. If the $76,900, second mortgage bonds, and $144,200 of third mortgage bonds, still undisposed of, were sold (the 2d at 75 per cent. and the 3d for one half money and one half stock, as fixed by the Company) the proceeds would liquidate the entire floating debt, except the interest scrip due to stockholders, payable in 1860, and amounting to something over $26,000.

Mr. Pickard thought it would be bad policy to raise the money on the third mortgage bonds in that way, as the Company would pay interest on double the amount received.

The President agreed in this view. If the second mortgage bonds could all be disposed of to settle the more pressing liabilities alluded to, money might perhaps be raised to meet the liabilities for the Pier Corporation property and other lands, by extensions, or by new loans upon pledge of the stock in that Corporation.

Mr. Paine made some inquiries relative to the condition of this property, the Company's claim upon it, the manner in which the Railroad lease operates upon it, &c.—which were answered by the President and others. Mr. P. thought the P. & K. Company should obtain a deed of the property from the Pier Corporation, if possible.

After some further remarks by Messrs Pickard, Taylor, Ware, Paine, Merrill and others the whole subject of providing for the Company's debt was, on motion of Mr. Pickard, referred to the Directors, and the meeting was then adjourned.

[We take the following extracts from the Report of the Directors as made through the President, Hollis Bowman Esq.]

The whole receipts of the joint line, for the past year, from the business traffic, have been $[illegible],119,24, and the expenses for maintaining and operating the line, have been $134,[illegible],12. The proportion of the net receipts belonging to this company amounts to $62,[illegible],05.

From the Report of the Treasurer you will learn the financial condition of the company.

Of the floating debt, about $49,000, is for Pier Corporation and other lands and rights of way in Bangor, the title to which can only be secured by payment of the obligations outstanding for them. About $20,000, of this part of the floating debt has matured, and is unprovided for, and remains under temporary arrangements. Unless measures are adopted by you to provide for these matured obligations the property must be abandoned.

A further portion of the floating debt amounting to $21,010 is secured by the City and Company Bonds.

For the payment of outstanding Coupons and of the portion of the floating debt, above referred to, it is of vital importance that early and effectual measures be taken.

The sale of the unsold bonds of the company, being obviously the first step to this end, we have obtained a subscription for a part of the Second Bonds, conditioned to be paid when the whole of the bonds are subscribed for. To render this subscription available, it is necessary that the balance of these bonds, about $25,000, be taken up.

The whole income from the traffic of the road, will be required for the payment of current coupons, so that the payment of the balances of the above portion of your debt and of the other floating debt of the company, depends upon the sale of the Third Bonds, which, by a vote of the Stockholders, are subject to sale for one half money and one half stock of the company.

Until the present year, the business of the whole line showed a gratifying annual increase which promised ultimately to relieve the embarrassments of your road, but since September last, the receipts have fallen off with the depression of the general business of the country. For a time the moving of freight to and from important stations on the line, was almost stopped, and the general travel very much diminished, but the traffic at these points seems to be gradually improving.

The following is from the Report of the Treasurer, Elias Merrill Esq. [In our extracts heretofore given from the reports of the And. & Ken. R. R. we have shown the joint business of the two roads.]

The Christian, Mississippi, Monitor gives the following item:

"Going up the street a few days ago we saw a sight we didn't expect to see, nor do we expect to see again in a great while. It was nothing more nor less than a little negro boy, about four or five years old stretched out upon the ground beside a poor, mangy looking cur, and sucking away as though it was his mother. Such a scene is not often witnessed in our town, and it rather amused us. And what made [illegible] the idea of suckling a human pig."

DARING OUTRAGE UPON A YOUNG LADY IN BREWER.—The Union says that on Sunday evening, as Miss Clara Wentworth, a very respectable young lady of Brewer, was returning from a religious meeting, when near the residence of Mr. Sullivan Wilson, she was assaulted by an athletic man who seized her by the throat, when a spirited and successful resistance was made by her, until her cries for assistance brought to her aid two young men—Billings Bradlee and Judson [illegible]kins. The villain, seeing the young men approach, made his escape, being followed by one of them until lost sight of in the darkness of the night.

THE SPIES OF PARIS. A Paris correspondent of the New Orleans Picayune gives the following information:

"If you will recollect that our Ministry of the Interior alone expend $200,000 annually in "secret expenses," you will see what a sum of money is at the disposition of these adventurers. Besides, all the ministries have their secret expenses, which are now excessively great, for spies more than ever are to be found in the best classes of society. The usual pay of "gentlemen spies," is between $1,200 and $2,400 a year, according to the talents of the spy, and some spies who are adroit enough to be paid by several ministries together, draw as much as $6,000 a year. They give splendid balls and marry their children to fortune, and die rich and honored. Veron, in his memoirs, mentions one who lived on two pensions during the whole of Louis Philippe's reign, and managed to amass an estate of $[illegible],000 annually, over and above his spy's pay. But these are themes ill suited with the day of a newspaper; they best befit the winter's hearth, the lighted lamp, closed shutters, closed doors, and a friendly circle.

STEAM FIRE ENGINES.—St. Louis has now five steam fire engines, and will shortly have two more. The last engine is named "Missouri, No. 5" and was presented to the city by the underwriters, on condition that the city should herself furnish two new ones, which was acceded to. With this machine steam was raised and water thrown in the short space of four minutes after kindling the fire, through one hundred feet of hose, from an inch and a quarter nozzle, two hundred and nineteen feet.—Boston Journal.

He, with a number of other lads, was at play just above the upper dam, when a log rolled over him; but as he lay in a crevice of the rock, the whole weight did not fall upon him. MORE ESCAPES. Two persons confined in the House of Correction, Wm. Carl of Brunswick, for larceny, and Wm. T. Hardy of this city for debt, made their escape on Sunday night. They were confined in the third story of the building, but by the use of some portion of the bedstead they pried out the bars of the window, and then by making a rope of the bed clothes descended into the yard, and crept out under the fence, making good their escape.—Portland Argus.

American & Foreign Patents.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents,
(Late Agent of U. S. Patent Office, Washington under Act of 1837.)
76 State Street, opposite Kilby-st.,
BOSTON.

AFTER an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France, and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents executed on liberal terms, and with despatch. Researches made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of Patents or Inventions—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.

This Agency is not only the largest in New England, but, through it inventors have advantages for securing Patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions, unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate. The immense practice of the subscriber, during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works and full accounts of Patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining patents.

All necessity of a journey to Washington, to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor for procuring patents.—There were few, if any, persons acting in that capacity who had so much business before the Patent office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.

[From the present Commissioner.]

"August 17, 1855.—During the time I have held the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, has been extensively engaged in the transaction of business with the Office, as a Solicitor. He is thoroughly acquainted with the law, and the rules of practice of the office. I regard him as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse.

American Safety Paper Manufacturing Company of N. Y.

Capital $500,000.

A. NICHOLAS, President. Office, 70 Wall-st.

A Perfect Security against all manner of Fraud or Counterfeiting on Paper—To Prevent Photographic and Anastatic Counterfeits, Erasures, Transfers or Alterations!

HAVING purchased the Patent for the exclusive right to manufacture and sell the Chemical Paper in America, invented and patented in England by HENRY GLYNN, a celebrated chemist and officer in the British Army, it is hardly necessary to say that the Paper is recommended by Mr Kent, Assayer of the U. S. Mint, Mr. Lyman of the New York Clearing House, and Meade Brothers, extensive and skillful photographers, 233 Broadway, N. Y. The latter say that no imitation can be made on a check or bank note printed on this Safety Paper. Below is our list of prices:

Bank Checks	45 cts. per lb.
Bank Bills	$25 for 1000 sheets.
Bills of Exchange	$25 for 1000 sheets.
Promissory Notes	40 cts. per lb.
Sight and Time Drafts	$25 for 1000 sheets.
Insurance Policies	40 cts. per lb.
Railroad Stock and Bonds	40 cts. per lb.
Bank and State Stocks	40 cts. per lb.
Bonds and Mortgages	40 cts per lb.
Wills and Deeds	40 cts. per lb.

For writing Bills and other fine articles it is excellent, as it prevents moths, 40 cts. a lb.

For Indentures and Agreements it is 40 cts. a lb.

All Wills and County Records should always be printed on this paper, as the chemicals inserted in the pulp not only prevents erasure or transfer, but makes it lasting as time.

For Schedules [illegible] it is excellent and much superior to any other, as the moisture of the climate is not destroyed by it,—this properties inserted in the pulp being a preventive. In all the Southern States, Cuba, the West Indies, and the Central American States, no public records can be kept over 20 years written on the ordinary paper, as the ink and other chemicals inserted in the paper [illegible] destroy it by the ravages of insects, [illegible] but this is proof against all insects and the vermin, which feast on and destroy all other paper made in [illegible].

The Company is now in operation, Mills in Morris County, N. J., of about 500 horse power, and are able to fill all orders for Paper at the shortest notice.

All orders for the Paper must be addressed to A. NICHOLAS, President of the Company, No. 70 Wall street, New York.

LINCOLN'S WATER-PROOF BLACKING, AND LEATHER PRESERVATIVE.

Keep your Feet dry and you will seldom need a Physician.

IS it not a truth that when the feet are often wet, it is one of the greatest causes of colds and consumption? It is a truth that when leather is often wet and dried, it soon becomes hard, stiff, and cracks; but when it is water-proof this is remedied. By the application of this preservative, it remains soft, and entirely impervious to water.

After being engaged for 21 years in the manufacture of Leather in all its branches, and being often troubled with wet feet myself, I was led to experimenting on different compositions, and found it easy to make it water-proof, but at the same time extremely injurious to the leather. At last by a chemical process, I discovered a preparation which perfectly harmonizes with the astringent properties with which leather is tanned. It will not only make leather water-proof, but it likewise softens the leather, and it will Positively wear twice as long.

I have now used it for three years, and a large part of that time have worked in a wet Tannery, with my boots constantly in water, and have not had my feet wet during that time. I can therefore in all confidence, recommend it to the public as the best article in the market.

THE LUXURY AND PROFIT OF HONEY MAKING.

☞ Torrey's Bee Hive.

THE subscriber, having purchased the right of making and selling Davis' Patent Bee Hive for the Counties of Penobscot, Lincoln and Sagadahoc, which has been received with so much favor, and taken the first premiums wherever exhibited, has introduced an improvement into the Bee Hive and is now prepared to make the same in connection with the Davis Platform, and to sell rights to towns and individuals.

This Bee Hive, thus improved, is admitted by persons acquainted with the honey-making business to be superior to every thing yet invented for the purpose. It covers all the requisitions for the profitable maintenance of the apiary, by providing for ventilation at all seasons of the year—room for the exercise and feed of the bees—convenience for the removal of excrement, for the proper separation of the swarms, and generally for the health and comfort of the workers.

The boxes used in this Hive for storing honey, are the best adapted in their size, for the market, holding from three to six pounds each.

The subscriber wishes to purchase one hundred swarms of bees in exchange for bee-hives and individual rights.

THE LIVER INVIGORATOR,

PREPARED BY DR. SANFORD,

Compounded entirely from Gums,

IS ONE OF THE BEST PURGATIVE AND Liver Medicines now before the public.

These Gums remove all morbid or bad matter from the system, supplying in their place a healthy flow of bile, invigorating the stomach, causing food to digest well, purifying the blood, giving tone and health to the whole machinery, removing the cause of the disease—effecting a radical cure.

Bilious attacks are cured, and, what is better prevented, by the occasional use of the Liver Invigorator.

One dose after eating is sufficient to relieve the stomach and prevent the food from rising and souring.

Only one dose taken before retiring prevents nightmare.

Only one dose taken at night loosens the bowels gently, and cures costiveness.

One dose taken after each meal will cure Dyspepsia.

One dose of two teaspoonfuls will always relieve Sick Headache.

Only one dose immediately relieves Cholic, while

LIVER INVIGORATOR

One dose often repeated is a sure cure for Cholera Morbus, and a preventive of Cholera.

Only one bottle is needed to throw out of the system the effects of medicine after a long sickness.

One bottle taken for Jaundice removes all sallowness or unnatural color from the skin.

One dose taken a short time before eating gives vigor to the appetite and makes the food digest well.

One dose, often repeated, cures Chronic Diarrhoea in its worst forms, while Summer and Bowel Complaints yield almost to the first dose.

A few bottles will cure Dropsy by exciting the absorbents.

We take pleasure in recommending this medicine as a preventive for Fever and Ague, Chill Fever, and all Fevers of a Bilious type. It operates with certainty, and thousands are willing to testify to its wonderful virtues.

All who use it are giving their unanimous testimony in its favor.

Mix water in the mouth with the Invigorator, and swallow both together.

Subjoined are the statements from some eminent physicians, of their effects in their practice.

AS A FAMILY PHYSIC.

From Dr. E. W. Cartwright, of New Orleans.

"Your Pills are the prince of purges. Their excellent qualities surpass any cathartic we possess. [illegible] but very certain and effectual in their action [illegible] which makes them invaluable to us in the daily treatment of disease."

FOR JAUNDICE AND ALL LIVER COMPLAINTS.

From Dr. Theodore Bell, of New York City.

"Not only are your Pills admirably adapted to their purpose as an aperient, but I find their beneficial effects upon the Liver very marked indeed. [illegible] practice proved more effectual for the cure of bilious complaints than any one remedy I can mention. I sincerely rejoice that we have at length a purgative which is worthy the confidence of the profession and the people."

DYSPEPSIA — INDIGESTION.

From Dr. Henry J. Knox, of St. Louis.

"The Pills you were kind enough to send me have been all used in my practice, and have satisfied me that they are truly an extraordinary medicine. [illegible] adapted to the diseases of the human system, they seem to work upon them alone. I have [illegible] dyspepsia and indigestion with them [illegible] other remedies we commonly use. [illegible] mentally found them to be effectual in cases [illegible] plaints for which you recommend them."

DYSENTERY — DIARRHOEA — RELAX.

From Dr. J. G. Green, of Chicago.

"Your Pills have had a long trial in my practice, and I hold them in esteem as one of the best aperients I have found. Their alterative effect upon the liver makes them an excellent remedy, when given in small doses for bilious dysentery and diarrhoea. Their sugar-coating makes them very acceptable and convenient for the use of women and children."

INTERNAL OBSTRUCTION — WORMS — SUPPRESSION.

From Mrs. E. Stuart, who practises as a Physician and Midwife in Boston.

"I find one or two large doses of your Pills, taken at the proper time, are excellent promotives of the natural secretion when wholly or partially suppressed, and also very effectual to cleanse the stomach and expel worms. They are so much the best physic we have that I recommend no other to my patients."

CONSTIPATION — COSTIVENESS.

From Dr. J. P. Vaughn, Montreal, Canada.

"Too much cannot be said of your Pills for the cure of costiveness. If others of our fraternity have found them as efficacious as I have, they should join me in proclaiming it for the benefit of the multitudes who suffer from that complaint, which, although bad enough in itself, is the progenitor of others that are worse. I believe costiveness to originate in the liver, but your Pills affect that organ and cure the disease."

IMPURITIES OF THE BLOOD — SCROFULA — ERYSIPELAS — SALT RHEUM — TETTER — TUMORS — RHEUMATISM — GOUT — NEURALGIA.

From Dr. Ezekiel Hall, Philadelphia.

"You were right, Doctor, in saying that your Pills purify the blood. They do that. I have used them of late years in my practice, and agree with your statements of their efficacy. They stimulate the excretories, and carry off the impurities that stagnate in the blood, engendering disease. They stimulate the organs of digestion, and infuse vitality and vigor into the system.

"Such remedies as you prepare are a national benefit, and you deserve great credit for them."

FOR HEADACHE — SICK HEADACHE — FOUL STOMACH — PILES — DROPSY — PLETHORA — PARALYSIS — FITS — &c.

From Dr. Edward Boyd, Baltimore.

"DEAR DR. AYER: I cannot answer you what complaints I have cured with your Pills better than to say all that we ever treat with a purgative medicine. I place great dependence on an effectual cathartic in my daily contest with disease, and believing as I do that your Pills afford us the best we have, I of course value them highly."

☞ Most of the Pills in market contain Mercury, which, although a valuable remedy in skilful hands, is dangerous in a public pill, from the dreadful consequences that frequently follow its incautious use. These contain no mercury or mineral substance whatever.
